

Charric Van der Vliet Presents
The CVV Songbook, Volume 8, Number 136

Tarquin's Memory

G D C G
I heard it said, the King enquired, that Tarquin got too bold
G D C G
That at the after reveling, he was seen, or so I'm told
C G C D G
So Tarquin, now, explain yourself, come tell us all the tale!
G D C D G
Let the chips fall where they may, you're looking awfully pale...(and Tarquin said:)
C G
Chorus: I'm usually too drunk to remember,
C G
Or else I wasn't there
C G
I don't remember where it was,
C D G
It must've been Eldormere...

Here now, Tarquin, said the Queen, I heard a different tale
They say you started the feast food flying, you unrepentant male!
And when the tables rocked and shook, they said you were to blame
I'd hate to think you were the one to earn us such a name (and Tarquin said:)
(Chorus)

Then said the Earl Marshall, I've heard a tale or two
And many are the tales I've heard, how many were of you?
Or was it that Squire Meech-ko, I hear his face is like
Should it be that wretched lad our justice now should strike? (and Tarquin said:)
(Chorus)

Charric Van der Vliet
AS 32
18DEC1997
House Silvermoor
Barony of Red Spears